What is SSO?

Single Sign On is an agreement between three entities

Users

Individual people need to access different services. Users should be able to manage personal information such as their password, and they should be uniquely identifiable

Identity Providers

An "Identity Provider" tells us more about that user. It is the source of truth for not only who this person is, but also what roles they have – those roles, in turn, inform other systems about what this person is allowed to do

Service Providers

Service Providers are traditionally applications, but they can include all sorts of products and services such as WiFi access, your phone or "Internet of Things" devices like a smart lock or a refrigerator.

Basic Authorization

I want in!

Give me your creds, I'll handle it

Here's my Username and Password
